Dingley's Promise Training

Building Early Years Inclusion

Leadership and Management for Inclusion Training Course

Are you confident that your leadership and management approach is supporting inclusion across your setting?

As a leader or manager in an early years setting, having a clear vision and ethos that values and promotes inclusion is essential. This course supports you to reflect on your current leadership and management practices, understand the wider context in which your setting operates and develop practical approaches to strengthen inclusion. You'll gain the knowledge and tools to plan effectively for the needs of all children and support your setting on its journey towards more inclusive practice.

THIS COURSE COVERS:

- The role of inclusive leadership and management in creating positive outcomes for children.
- Developing a clear vision and ethos for inclusion across your setting.
- Planning for inclusion through effective leadership, management and partnership working.
- Creating an inclusive curriculum and learning environment.
- Using your understanding of the wider context, opportunities and challenges to inform your setting's development.

YOU WILL EXPLORE:

✓ The duties of an inclusive leader and manager, including relevant legal frameworks
✓ How to develop and embed a clear vision for inclusion across your setting
✓ Creating an inclusive curriculum and learning environment
✓ How to plan short- and long-term objectives for inclusion
✓ Understanding your local market and using effective financial management to support your setting's development

Join Dingley's Promise in transforming inclusive practice in the early years, to give every child the best start in life.

Register today for our 'Leadership and Management for Inclusion' Training Course by visiting:
dingley.org.uk/training/