Dingley's Promise Training

Building Early Years Inclusion

The Voice of the Child Training Course

Would you like to have more knowledge and confidence to understand and communicate with children with SEND in your setting?

This course explores a range of communication methods and provides practical strategies to help educators effectively listen to, understand and respond to the voice of the child. To fully support children with special educational needs and disabilities (SEND), it is important to recognise and understand the unique ways in which they communicate, ensuring that every child has the opportunity to express themselves and their individual needs. This course is particularly popular with newly qualified educators, as well as those looking to further develop their professional skills and understanding of SEND.

THIS COURSE COVERS:

- The importance of listening to and valuing the voice of every child with SEND, whatever their method of communication.
- Practical strategies to support children with SEND and communication differences in your setting.
- How inclusive practice can support positive outcomes for children and contribute to your setting's development.

YOU WILL EXPLORE:

✓ A range of communication methods
✓ How to create a communication-rich environment where every child can be heard
✓ How behaviour can be a form of communication and how to respond effectively
✓ How play supports communication, language development and self-expression
✓ How positive relationships with children and families help us understand the voice of the child
✓ International perspectives on inclusive practice and effective listening

Join Dingley's Promise in transforming inclusive practice in the early years, to give every child the best start in life.
